Lloyd Webber fortune takes £20m virus hit

ANDREW Lloyd Webber is expected to take a £20million hit to his fortune as a result of the coronavirus crisis, according to the Sunday Times Rich List.

The 72-year-old composer (above) stands to lose millions of pounds due to the closure of his theatres in the West End and on Broadway.

He has also had to delay the London opening of his musical Cinderella.

However, he still tops the list of wealthiest musicians along with Sir Paul McCartney, 77, with a calculated wealth of £800m.

The Beatle's wealth has increased year on year, up from £750m last year, aided by 29 concerts which took £92.4m at the box office.

He also released a chart-topping album, Egypt Station, and his first children's book, Hey Grandude!

Barbadian singer Rihanna is a new entry on the rich list in third place.

All three are from Plymouth and are currently in custody.

CORONATION Street's much-loved duos are being resurrected on Royal Mail stamps.

The stamps will feature sharp-tongued Ena Sharples and her nemesis Elsie Tanner, Vera and Jack Duckworth, famous for their rows, and Hilda Ogden and husband Stan.

The eight stamps mark the ITV soap's 60th anniversary.

Double-acts Deirdre and Ken Barlow, Rita Tanner and Norris Cole, Hayley and Roy Cropper, Sunita and Dev Alahan, and Tracy and Steve McDonald also appear in stamp form – with each image containing a quote conveying "the essence" of the relationship.

Four further stamps, in a miniature sheet, celebrate characters who have worked behind the bar at the Rovers Return – Bet Lynch, Raquel Watts, Liz McDonald and Gemma Winter.

Series producer Iain MacLeod said: "It is an honour to have the show immortalised in this fashion. I hope fans will agree that the ones we've chosen, after much heated debate, are among the best of the bunch.

"This fun idea is a great way to pay homage to the nation's best-loved soap and give lovers of Coronation Street a little smile when an envelope pops through their letterbox and they see their favourite characters looking up at them."

ROBBING RATS: Depot was ransacked and left near empty

Raid vermin steal £10k supplies from virus charity

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

FOOD and supplies worth thousands of pounds collected for vulnerable people have been stolen by a SCUMBAG gang who raided a city depot.

Non-perishable food, hand sanitisers and toiletries were taken from the Manchester depot over the bank holiday.

They were part of an aid effort by local businesses and Greater Manchester Combined Authority (GMCA) to help people during the coronavirus crisis.

"I'm gutted, I can't believe it," said depot owner Tim Heatley.

Mr Heatley, who is chair of the Greater Manchester Mayor's Charity, said: "I feel terrible for all the people who have been so generous. We have lost at least £10,000 worth of stock.

"It looks like a professional job. They used bolt cutters, they ransacked the place but knew exactly what they were looking for."

Mr Heatley's company, Capital and Centric, bought the derelict site for redevelopment earlier in the year but decided to put it to temporary use as a depot for the mayor's charity.

It had only been operating a few weeks to help people affected by the coronavirus pandemic.

Mr Heatley added: "The only positive is the incredible way other businesses have been in touch saying 'can we help replace what has been taken?'

"I've got to say the night time economy sector have been incredible."

One company has sent them more than 20,000 bottles of hand sanitiser.

'Spat at' rail ticket officer dies of virus

A RAILWAY ticket office worker has died of coronavirus after being spat at while on duty.

Belly Mujinga, 47, was on the concourse of Victoria station in London in March when a member of the public who said he had Covid-19 spat and coughed at her and a colleague.

Within days of the assault, both women fell ill with the virus.

Ms Mujinga, who had underlying respiratory problems, was admitted to Barnet Hospital and put on a ventilator.

She died on April 5, her trade union, the Transport Salaried Staffs Association (TSSA), said.

The union has reported the incident to the Railways Inspectorate, the safety arm of the Office for Road and Rail (ORR), for investigation and is taking legal advice on the situation.

TSSA general secretary Manuel Cortes said: "We are shocked and devastated at Belly's death.

"She is one of far too many frontline workers who have lost their lives to coronavirus."

British Transport Police said it is investigating the incident.

SUNAK EXTENDS FURLOUGH SCHEME

THE UK scheme to pay the wages of workers on leave because of the coronavirus crisis will be extended to October, Rishi Sunak has said.

The Chancellor (left) said the government had backed workers and companies going into the lockdown, and would support them coming out.

Mr Sunak confirmed that employees will continue to receive 80 per cent of their monthly wages up to £2,500.

But he said the government will ask companies to "start sharing" the cost of the scheme from August onwards.

Mr Sunak rejected suggestions some people might get "addicted" to furlough if it was extended.

Around 7.5 million workers are now covered by the scheme, up from 6.3m last week, he said.

The Chancellor told the Commons that, from August, the scheme would continue for all sectors and regions of the country but with greater flexibility to support the transition back to work.

Employers currently using the scheme would be able to bring furloughed employees back part-time.

BBC News presenter Vicky Young set Twitter alight when she reported on the government's plan to ease "water sports" out of coronavirus lockdown.

The Beeb's chief political correspondent was summarising the government's latest advice after Boris Johnson's TV briefing on Sunday.

But she soon suffered the indignity of Twitter trolls who were quick to make her honest words seem tawdry and base.

Cambridge-educated Vicky wrote: "More exercise and leisure activities will be allowed in England from Wednesday, including tennis, golf and water sports with household members. Must socially distance. #coronavirus"

Sex

It was the "water sports" comment that got more creative tweeters thinking about golden showers – where couples enjoy weeing on each other during sex.

User Greg Charman asked: "Please explain social distancing while partaking in water sports with a family member" – followed by half a dozen laughing emojis.

And Poppleton Pink wrote: "Water sports? The escort industry will be delighted. How long til 'hard play' makes a welcome return too?"

Hard play is sexual activity that involves solid human waste.

Another commenter used emojis to spell out "golden shower".

Others, like Angela Sharpe, were less naughty, saying: "So you can sleep with your partner but not share a canoe with them?"

Confusion has reigned over lockdown easing. First Secretary Dominic Raab said workers such as those on construction sites should return to work on Wednesday – two days later than the PM suggested less than 24 hours earlier.

Rachel rant at Eamonn over virus

COUNTDOWN star Rachel Riley has slammed Eamonn Holmes for comments he made about the coronavirus and 5G technology during an episode of This Morning.

Holmes was branded "irresponsible" for remarks regular broadcasting watchdog Ofcom labelled "ambiguous".

He had cast doubt on media outlets that had dismissed the conspiracy theory saying 5G causes coronavirus.

Holmes later said he was "misinterpreted".

Riley (above) told the Radio Times she had previously "fallen out" with Holmes when he invited conspiracy theorist David Icke on his radio show.

She said: "There are a lot of people trying to make money by spreading lies about coronavirus, whether it's quack remedies or stupid conspiracy theories about 5G.

"It's dangerous, especially when these things get repeated on shows that you're expected to trust."

Drugs seized as bug bites crime gangs

AT least 10 tonnes of Class A drugs have been seized as gangs look to move larger quantities during the coronavirus pandemic, the National Crime Agency has said.

Investigators have seen heroin prices double as lockdowns in countries where drugs are sourced – such as Pakistan and Colombia – along with aviation and shipping bans make it harder for organised crime groups to operate.

"In the last four weeks, we've really seen some of those restrictions beginning to get to the organised crime groups that are moving drugs at the top of the chain," said NCA drugs threat head Lawrence Gibbons.

"They don't stop at times like these. Even in a pandemic, they are still moving, or attempting to move, drugs."

Women first to fall asleep after sex, say boffins

FORGET the fable that men fart and fall asleep after sex…

Because it's WOMEN who drift off to the Land of Nod first after nookie, boffins say.

Published in Evolutionary Behavioral Sciences, the study of 128 female and 98 male college students found that women reported a higher likelihood of falling asleep after a sexual encounter compared to men.

"Postcopulatory somnolence was also enhanced by orgasm in both women and men. However, with or without orgasm, women were more likely than men to report falling asleep after sex," said study authors from State University of New York at Albany.

The findings also showed women who were being inseminated were more likely to fall asleep after sex.

But there was no evidence for sex differences in the sedative properties of masturbation.

"Our paper summarises growing evidence that 'getting laid' maps on to an evolved adaptive mechanism that functions to promote sperm retention in humans, which as a species are unique in having evolved an upright posture and bipedalism," study author Gordon G Gallup said.

"This brings the woman's reproductive tract into a perpendicular orientation with respect to gravity where it may not be suitable for the retention of sperm," Gallup added.

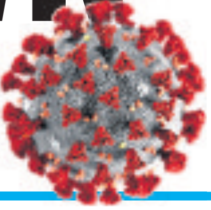
ONE-IN-FIVE BROKE VIRUS LOCKDOWN FOR SEX ROMPS



Shock new survey reveals kinky truth about breaches

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

ONE in five people has broken the Covid-19 lockdown for sex, according to a new survey.

The biggest group breaching the restrictions (48%) are couples who were in a relationship prior to lockdown but don't live together.

In this group, 52% have had sex with their partner since the rules were imposed which stopped people from visiting the homes of anyone outside of their household.

More than half of those breaching the rules (61%) have sneaked to their partner's house for sex – and other popular places for sex include cars, parks, beaches, beauty spots and other public places.

TRYSTS: Prof Ferguson

A third (32%) have answered a late night 'booty call' and gone to their partner's house specifically for sex.

Affairs have also continued during lockdown.

Of those breaking the lockdown for sex, 22% are people cheating on their partners with lovers they were seeing before the restrictions were imposed.

However, there is a smaller group (8%) who have started new affairs since lockdown began and have met up with a new lover for sex.

The results are from a new survey of 2,000 people aged 18-70 by IllicitEncounters.com, the UK's leading affairs site.

It found that 22% of people have had sex in breach of the lockdown rules.

The level of lockdown cheating was even higher amongst the under-30s, with 38% admitting they had breached the rules by having sex.

Less than half those questioned (48%) said they felt guilty about breaching the restrictions.

Two-thirds (64%) said they would carry on breaking the rules and having sex as long as a full lockdown lasts.

Only last week, Professor Neil Ferguson, 51, resigned from the Government's SAGE committee after admitting meeting up with his married lover for secret trysts in breach of the rules.

IllicitEncounters.com sex and relationship expert Jessica Leoni said: "It is no surprise that one in five people have broken the lockdown for sex.

"I think people were prepared to make sacrifices in the first few weeks after the new rules were imposed, but more and more breaches have been happening the longer it has gone on.

"It is very easy to succumb to lust, particularly late at night when you have been communicating with a partner you were seeing pre-lockdown.

"People flirt on Facetime or Zoom and then agree to meet up when passion gets the better of them.

"That is why we are seeing so many 'booty calls' late at night – often fuelled by alcohol.

"The rules are particularly hard on young people who are often in committed relationships but don't live with their partners.

"They have a very low risk of getting seriously ill from the virus and don't see why they should forgo sex and be separated from their partners for months on end."

IllicitEncounters.com has seen an 18% rise in male members' activity and a 12% rise from women on the site since lockdown was imposed.

More than a million people have registered with IllicitEncounters.com since it was founded 16 years ago.

WHO'S BREAKING THE LOCKDOWN FOR SEX?

1 Couples in relationship who don't live together – 48%
2 People having affairs which pre-date the lockdown – 22%
3 Singles who have met someone new since lockdown – 20%
4 People having new affairs – 8%
5 Married couples living in separate house who have met up for sex – 2%

Figures from a survey of 2,000 people from IllicitEncounters.com

FIRE KILLS FIVE ICU PATIENTS

A FIRE at a hospital has killed five coronavirus patients in an intensive care unit.

The blaze was apparently started by a short-circuit in a ventilator at the hospital in St Petersburg, Russia.

The fire was contained and 150 people were evacuated from the hospital. It is not clear how many people were injured.

The patients who died had been on ventilators.

"The ventilators are working to their limits. Preliminary indications are that it was overloaded and caught fire, said a source at St Petersburg emergencies department.

GORGEOUS Lizzie Cundy has been spicing up lockdown by doing her chores in a range of skimpy cossies!

The telly and radio presenter shared snaps on social media showing her watering her garden and washing windows in the flattering swimwear.

The 50-year-old has also been busy doing her show on Talk Radio while working from home.

And she even added clarity to Boris's mixed messages over relaxing lockdown rules, telling followers: "I'm going to stay 'ALERT' in my bikini, in my garden and staying at home!...

"I've fixed Boris's slogan for him as it didn't make sense... 'Don't go out unless you really have to! Stay safe everyone!'"

Ryanair plan to get more flights in air

RYANAIR has announced a plan to restore 40 per cent of its flight schedule from July 1.

The airline said the measure is subject to government restrictions on flights within the EU being lifted and "effective public health measures" being put in place at airports.

It would involve nearly 1,000 flights per day being operated and 90% of its pre-Covid-19 route network being restored.

Crew and passengers will be required to wear face masks or face coverings and pass temperature checks.

Queuing for toilets will be banned, but "toilet access will be made available to individual passengers upon request".

Refreshments available to buy on board will be limited to pre-packaged items and sales will be cashless.

Tough call... bake a cake or have a wk!

YOUNG adults between the ages of 18 to 24 are masturbating more since the coronavirus outbreak.

And they're not doing so alone – many are using social media to interact with a partner while enjoying themselves.

A Trojan Condoms survey reports quarantine masturbation is nearly as popular as baking during the social distancing restrictions – 36 per cent to 37 per cent.

And 28% of those enjoying self-satisfaction took to more sexting and sought a long distance social media partner for racier encounters.

More than 1 in 5 of those who masturbated virtually did so with an ex at a distance.

Amongst those polled, men are more likely to be masturbating while social distancing than women – 44% to 29%.

Churches now ready to stream services online

CHURCHES will begin streaming services online this week, the Bishop of Chelmsford has said.

Religious buildings in the UK have been shut for nearly two months to halt the spread of coronavirus, with select services broadcast online.

But the Rt Rev Stephen Cottrell said a number of vicars will now stream services.

Rev Cottrell, who will shortly succeed the Archbishop of York, said: "When we do return to the sacred, beautiful space of our church buildings, with all their vital and much missed resonances of continuity, I believe the Church of England will emerge from this stronger than it has been for a long while."

Rocker ‘racist’ for ‘bat eating bastards’ rant

BRYAN Adams has been branded ‘racist’ by snowflakes over a social media post which appeared to blame the ongoing coronavirus pandemic on China and its citizens.

The Summer of ’69 rocker came under fire for the post – shared on Instagram and Twitter – in which he blamed the pandemic on ‘bat eating bastards’.

The 60-year-old wrote: “Tonight was supposed to be the beginning of a tenancy of gigs at the @royalalberthall, but thanks to some f*ing bat eating, wet market animal selling, virus making greedy bastards, the whole world is now on hold, not to mention the thousands that have suffered or died from this virus.”

The hitmaker seemed to blame denizens of Wuhan, China, where the virus is believed to have originated, for eating meat and selling live animals.

“My message to them other than ‘thanks a fing lot’ is go vegan,” he added.

Man, 50, denies racially abusing BBC journalist

A MAN has appeared in court charged with public order offences after an incident involving a BBC reporter.

Russell Rawlingson, 50, pleaded not guilty at Leicester Magistrates’ Court to causing racially aggravated alarm or distress to Sima Kotecha.

The BBC correspondent said she and her team were subjected to “racist and abusive behaviour” on Sunday while preparing to broadcast from Leicester city centre.

The segment, which was due to broadcast reaction from the city to Boris Johnson’s speech to the nation, was cancelled.

The alleged incident was reported to police.

Rawlingson, of Leicester, was granted conditional bail until a pre-trial hearing at the city’s crown court on June 15.

ANNA Richardson wants to see BBC newsman Huw Edwards' COCK!

The Naked Attraction host was talking about celebs she'd like to see on her show – in which the contestants stand in a box and have their nakedness revealed bit by bit.

Speaking on the White Wine Question Time podcast with host Kate Thornton, Anna said she had an admiration for Welsh news anchorman Huw, who lives near her.

"Sometimes I'm in my park doing a little run and I see Huw working out with resistance bands," she told Anna.

"Huw is ripped. I might put Huw in the box!"

But Huw is not the only newsman she would like to see in the altogether.

Anna, 49, added: "I've got a massive crush on Gary Gibbon, the political editor of Channel Four News.

"Gary's always got really important things to say about parliament and I sort of look at Gary Gibbon with his silver fox hair and his very intellectual glasses and I think Gary Gibbon in the box…

"He might have really weird feet, funny knees, really strange balls, but I would just love to say Gary Gibbons."

She went on: "The other person I would quite like to see in the pod would be Pip Scofield.

"Because can you imagine… what's going on downstairs? Is he still dark?"

241 complaints over 'I want Boris to die'

BROADCASTING regulator Ofcom has received 241 complaints after Harry Potter star Miriam Margolyes said she had wanted Prime Minister Boris Johnson to DIE from coronavirus.

The lefty actress made the outrageous statement on Channel 4 show The Last Leg last month.

The row was sparked when presenter Adam Hills asked her how she felt the Government had handled the virus crisis so far.

Speaking from her home through a video link, the actress, 78, replied: "Appallingly, of course, appallingly. It's a disgrace, it's a scandal.

"I had difficulty not wanting Boris Johnson to die. I wanted him to die.

"Then I thought that will reflect badly on me… so then I wanted him to get better."

SKY TV hit Gangs of London has been secured for a second series.

The bloodthirsty series has been keeping fans on the edge of their sofas as the mercenary underworld criminals seek out their vengeful pounds of flesh.

The show follows the travails of the family of Finn Wallace – a gangland boss mysteriously executed by unknown enemies.

It also features actors Michelle Fairley and Valene Kane, who play Finn's widow Miriam and pregnant daughter Jacqueline respectively.

Sex

Eagle-eyed readers may have spotted this pair before – with a lot fewer clothes on!

In 1993's Comics series, Michelle, now 56, showed off the lot with a full frontal display during a bedroom scene.

And Valene, 33, went topless as she climbed on top of a lucky fella for sex in the 2012 flick Jump.

One production source said: "It's a cracking series and we can't wait to get going on the next one."

GWYNNIE SEX GURUS' ONLINE FINGERING CLASS

PUPIL: Paltrow

TWO sex tutors whose former students include actress Gwyneth Paltrow have put their sell-out FINGERING classes online during lockdown – and say it's a perfect time to work on your ORGASMS.

Betty Dodson, 90, an author often dubbed the "godmother of masturbation", runs the New York-based Bodysex course, which focuses on "overcoming negative body image and pleasure anxiety".

Before the pandemic, the £800 weekend course was fully booked until 2021, with a waiting list of thousands.

But she and colleague Carlin Ross, 47, have sidestepped social distancing restrictions by moving their sexy workshops online.

Betty said: "Pleasure is healing. With modern life people go on retreats to slow down their brain. They say meditate but I say masturbate – which is a form of meditation."

Guided by Betty, Carlin has taught 30 women, aged 27-74 and based all over the world, via video call since lockdown.

Just like the normal in-person classes, participants remove their clothes, and Carlin said the virtual element makes it feel "more intimate" and gives clients a greater sense of independence.

Carlin said: "I'm not a doctor or an essential worker but I felt I had to do something for women during lockdown."

She explained that for many females, the course is an opportunity to do something for themselves, adding: "They don't have the orgasms and pleasure they want. That's what it's about."

She also spoke of the health benefits to having more orgasms, claiming they help boost the immune system and encourage better sleep by releasing oxytocin and endorphins.

Strip clubs entitled to virus loans

A JUDGE has ruled strip clubs are entitled to emergency loans aimed at helping small businesses suffering in the coronavirus crisis.

US District Judge Matthew Leitman in Michigan issued a preliminary injunction that bars the Small Business Administration from excluding Paycheck Protection Program loans to businesses that present live performances or sell products of a "prurient sexual nature."

Leitman also said other businesses such as banks, political lobbying firms and restricted private clubs can't be excluded from the SBA program.

He said: "Simply put, Congress did not pick winners and losers in the PPP.

"It would ordinarily be absurd to conclude that Congress meant to provide financial assistance to, among others, certain sexually oriented businesses and private clubs that discriminate.

"But these are no ordinary times, and the PPP is no ordinary legislation."

The case was brought by strip clubs all over the US who were forced to close as COVID-19 – the disease caused by coronavirus – began its spread.

The Keeping Up With The Kardashians star, 35, really pushed the boat out for the family's momager.

She personalised each part of the gift – which contained some items that brought a tone of shock to Kris when she shared a video of the gift on social media.

Cannabis

In a series of clips on her Instagram Story, Kris began by showing a bottle of Belvedere Vodka, saying: "I'm opening Khloe's Mother's Day gift and we're off to a good start."

Showing off the label attached to the bottle, Kris read out: "For the 'It's 5 o'clock somewhere mommy'."

Kris looked at the next box, which had a picture of cannabis leaves on the front and a label that read: "For the 'Stressing me out mommy'."

Expressing some shock at what she is seeing, Kris questioned: "Is this weed?"

The gift then took an unexpected turn when Kris showed the next item was a couple of condoms, with a message that there will be no more additions to the family.

She reads out: "For the 'I'm done popping them out mommy'" – before adding "safety first kids".

There were some 'chill pills' for the "zen the f out mommy", as well as a sex toy that also raised an eyebrow with the grandmother.

The pink toy had a label on it that read: "For the 'I'll guess I'll do it myself' mommy."

Kris looked a little unsure and questioned: "Is this sexual?"

The gift package finished with something a little more relatable, as it tapped into her desire to have some retail therapy.

Kris exclaimed: "This is fabulous and so are you Khloe," as she opened a Dior box to reveal a new handbag.

A source said: "Kris will have some fun with that little lot!"

Hookers slam social-distance rules

HOOKERS have slammed plans to reopen the economy by July, claiming the profession has been completely forgotten about.

Australia's Prime Minister Scott Morrison has revealed a three-stage plan to ease coronavirus restrictions.

Each stage will last four weeks – with the first set of laxer rules allowing shops to open, limited customers to dine-in at restaurants and open houses, and auctions to go ahead.

But brothels have been provided with no timeline for when they can reopen, leaving industry insiders fearing what the future may hold for the profession in a post-lockdown economy.

Jules Kim, from sex work organisation Scarlet Alliance, said it was disappointing that brothels will be forced to remain shut, even when Australia reaches stage three of the restrictions.

"It's a further slap in the face for sex workers who are already struggling with no end in sight," she said.

"Sex workers have a great track record in relation to public health in Australia, demonstrated through many years of low rates of blood borne viruses and sexually transmitted infections and high rates of testing."

Eva, a sex worker from Brisbane, said: "How do you do sex work if you're social distancing? You can't give a handjob from five feet away."

GIRL'S SOLO PORN SHOW IN IKEA STORE

CHEEKY: Finger fun furniture sex act vid went viral

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

A WOMAN was caught on camera fingering herself on beds and sofas at her local IKEA store.

The firm now says it will take "more careful" security measures in its shops after the explicit video of a woman masturbating in one of its stores went viral.

The clip shows a woman pleasuring herself half-naked on various sofas and beds in the furniture store's showroom, as oblivious shoppers walk by.

While uncensored versions of the video have been scrubbed from Chinese social media, the Swedish company's response to the clip gained nine million views.

"We resolutely oppose and condemn this kind of behaviour and immediately reported it to the police in the city of the suspected store," Ikea said in a statement, without revealing the name of the branch.

The homeware group said it would take "even more careful security and public cleanliness measures" and urged all customers to "browse stores in an orderly and civilised way".

The identity of the woman, and the person who filmed it, have not been revealed.

It is not the first explicit video to cause a stir on China's tightly controlled social media platforms.

A Beijing branch of the Japanese clothing chain Uniqlo became infamous in 2015, after a clip of a couple having sex in one of its changing rooms went viral.

Police arrested five people, including the young couple in the video, while Uniqlo firmly denied that it was a publicity stunt.

Drunk woman held over naked stroll

POLICE arrested a woman after she was spotted walking NAKED along a street.

Officers said they received several reports about Sunnie Marie Hall, 37, who now faces a disorderly conduct charge.

According to a police report, when an officer asked her what she was doing, Hall (right) said she was walking.

When the cop asked her to get in the back of his patrol vehicle Hall, of Trussville, Alabama, tried to run off.

The officer was able to catch up with her and took her into custody.

Hall was booked into the Trussville City Jail.

A police source said: "We're not sure if she'd been drinking heavily."

SEX FOR DISABLED ON HEALTH SERVICE

DISABLED people can now get SEX on the health service, a court has ruled.

People with disabilities can use National Disability Insurance Scheme funds to access specialised sex worker services, the federal court in Australia said.

In a rebuke to the national disability insurance agency, the court ruled in favour of a woman who lives with multiple sclerosis and sought to include the services in her NDIS plan.

Despite the agency's position that it "does not fund participation in sexual activity", the federal court said the NDIS Act "does not expressly exclude such activities from being funded supports".

"Nor has any exclusion been made under the NDIS rules," the court said.

"There is no implied exclusion of such activities either, and in our opinion the better view is that they are intended to be included."

The woman, who is in her 40s and does not want to be identified, said the case had been a long and difficult ordeal, adding: "I am very pleased, but it has been a very stressful process that has dragged out for four years."

By BRAD CHADWICK
news@sundaysport.co.uk

FANCY slipping your knob into porn star Maitland Ward's mimsy – or even her back bottom?

Well now's your chance, because the actress who turned into a hardcore porn star is releasing a SEX ARSE and SEX MINGE!

The creators of the famous Fleshlight adult gadget are collaborating with Maitland to bring you EXACT replicas of the redhead's minge and bumhole.

A spokesman said: "We are beyond excited to have Maitland join the Fleshlight family as the first mainstream celeb Fleshlight Girl.

"She may be relatively new to the adult industry, but she has had the attention of men all over the world since her starring roles in TV shows like Boy Meets World and movies like White Chicks.

"Fans of both Maitland and adult toys are going to go CRAZY for these masturbators!"

The line of Fleshlight products will include toys moulded from Maitland's anatomy – one will feature an orifice modelled on her vagina, and the other replicates her anus.

Maitland, 43, said: "When it comes to adult products for men, nobody does it better than Fleshlight.

"I've resisted partnering with toy companies, but Fleshlight has an unbeatable reputation.

"No-one else brings the level of detail, accuracy and pure enjoyment that they do.

"My fans will not be disappointed."

Pilled-up mosque man held for nude romp with drum!

A MAN off his head on mystery "power pills" stripped naked in a mosque and beat a ceremonial drum by BONKING it.

Djamaludin Supadi, 53, was sentenced to six months in jail for public nuisance, indecency, assaulting a police officer and possessing weapons.

Jobless Djamaludin went to the Singapore mosque to pray.

He initially claimed he'd seen and heard an angel and felt "extreme power", but later admitted taking pills before going to the mosque, which "gave him extra energy".

At the mosque, he went to a set of drums on display near the prayer hall, stripped off and began humping the instrument before police were called.

After he was nicked, two knives were found on him, along with three penknife blade refill cases.

District Judge Marvin Bay told Djamaludin that his acts "amount to an aggravated and prolonged disturbance of a place of worship".

Fact me!

UNTIL the early 19th century, Australia was best known as "New Holland".

Drunk driver nicked for naked car w*nk

A DRIVER is in custody after police said he was found drunk and naked inside a car while also furiously masturbating.

Officers conducted a welfare check on a man who was found slumped inside a running vehicle.

When they approached the man, cops realised he was naked and showing signs of intoxication.

He was also "engaged in masturbatory activity".

The man was asked to put on his clothes and step out of the vehicle, which he refused to do.

He also resisted when police in Houston, Texas, tried to arrest him.

The man, who was later identified as Thomas Gorsuch, 53 (above) was given a field sobriety test, which he failed.

Gorsuch was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated, public obscenity and interfering with public duties.

VOGUE BABES BARE!

ACTRESS Dame Judi Dench made history this month after becoming the oldest person ever to appear on the cover of fashion bible, Vogue.

By SUZIE SHELDON

The 85-year-old rocked the magazine's front page wearing Dolce & Gabbana.

And the publication called her "a kind of cultural tea cosy to be popped soothingly over the nation's beleaguered identity in times of crisis".

Her daughter Finty Williams, 47, posted a tweet saying the Vogue shoot "gave her a little boost of confidence to make her go, 'Oh, maybe I'm still OK'.

"Then of course after the photo shoot, she came back thinking she was Beyoncé."

The cover of Vogue is more often graced by young supermodels and actresses who are famed for wearing very few clothes.

But Dame Judi has not always worn full costume in her roles.

In 1968 she stripped to play Titania in a film version of A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Today we pay tribute to all the Vogue cover babes – Dame Judi included – who have dared to bare...

ONE OF LIFE'S BAD GUYS

KEITH Houts was one of the good guys. He might have been a police officer, but even the people he handed traffic fines to respected his warm smile and easy-going attitude. Until, that is, Keith met one of life's bad guys – evil Mario Woodward, who riddled him with bullets for no good reason...

DEVOTION TO DUTY: Keith Houts served in Iraq before becoming a revered cop

IF a person's time on earth can be judged by the strength of his funeral congregation, Keith Houts lived a rich life indeed.

By NELSON SAUVIN

news@sundaysport.co.uk

Thousands lined the streets of Birmingham, Alabama, to give the 30-year-old the send-off he deserved.

A procession of some 400 cars and motorcycles, many from Keith's own Montgomery Police Department and other neighbouring forces, paid their respects.

As the local fire department stationed engines by the side of the road, the American flag hoisted high in the air on the vehicle's ladders, hundreds of residents stood above highway bridges to see his body being laid to rest.

Keith had devoted his life to helping others. He'd served in Iraq, he helped the local community through his church, he'd even met his devoted wife Ashley while serving in the forces abroad.

But despite battling terrorist insurgents in the Middle East, he hadn't banked on encountering Mario Woodward on the night of September 30, 2006.

During what was a routine traffic stop, Woodward pulled out a gun and shot Keith in the face, shattering his jaw and severing his spine.

Then, as Keith lay prone on the ground, Woodward emptied his gun into his defenceless body in a sickening act of brutal punishment.

Yet Keith still didn't know when he was beaten.

He fought for life for three days before, tragically, succumbing to his injuries.

And, as Keith lies in his cemetery resting place, Woodward now rots on Death Row, having been found guilty of murder in September 2008.

Touched

Hardest hit was Keith's widow.

Addressing Woodward in court after learning he'd be sentenced to death, Ashley revealed: "There's not a day goes by that I don't have someone come and tell me how Keith touched their life.

"You'd be surprised how many people in this community come up and say, 'He pulled over after work and changed my tyre,' or, 'He gave me a ticket but he smiled and was real nice when he did it'.

"Just different things. They say he brightened their day. This was a loss not just for our family but for the entire community."

Speaking in 2007, Ashley added: "He made me who I am today.

"We were only married a year and three months but we made a lifetime of memories.

"Sometimes I want to call and tell him what happened in my day, but I can't call.

"I know he holds a special place in the hearts of everyone he met.

"Women police officers say he was the one who always held the door. That was Keith, he was polite.

"I know what he meant to me, but it's important to know what he meant to everyone else."

Keith Houts was always earmarked for good things. He excelled at school and won a scholarship to Troy University on the back of his 'leadership abilities'.

He studied criminal justice before joining the Army Reserves with the 926th Engineer Brigade.

It was while on active duty in Iraq and Kuwait, between 2004 and 2005, that he met Ashley.

They returned to the US and Keith joined the Montgomery Police Department.

On September 30, 2006, he was cruising around town in his police car when he crossed paths with Mario Woodward.

This was a man with an extensive criminal record that involved firearms and possession of a large quantity of marijuana.

Court documents reveal: "Keith Houts was on patrol in a neighbourhood in north Montgomery and he conducted a traffic stop at approximately 12.30pm.

"Shonda Lattimore testified that she was sitting on her porch when she saw a police officer begin to execute a stop on a gray Impala

FATAL CALL: Judge made 'override' to turn Woodward's life sentence into death sentence

MONSTERS OF DEATH ROW

THE WORLD'S MOST EVIL MURDERERS AND THE HORRIFIC CRIMES THAT SAW THEM SENTENCED TO EXECUTION...

IN FRIDAY'S

BRUTAL KILLER: Mario Woodward emptied his gun as his victim lay defenceless

RESPECT: Police and firefighters turned out in numbers at Keith's funeral

HORROR: Jennifer Albert was only six when Woodward shot her mother being driven by a black man wearing a red hat.

"Ms Lattimore testified that she saw the driver of the Impala reach down for something as the Impala and the police car, with its emergency lights on, passed by the end of her street, before they went out of sight.

"Soon after the cars were out of her sight, she heard four or five gunshots.

"During the traffic stop, officer Houts entered the license tag of the Impala into the mobile data terminal in his patrol car.

"His car was equipped with a video camera that recorded the events that occurred during the stop. The video recording was played for the jury.

"It showed Houts getting out of his patrol car and approaching the driver's side door of the Impala.

"Just as officer Houts reached the door, the driver of the Impala fired a gun and shot him in the jaw.

"Medical testimony established that the bullet entered officer Houts' neck and severed his spine, causing him to collapse instantly.

"The driver then reached his arm out of the vehicle and shot officer Houts four more times before fleeing the scene in the Impala.

"Though the dashboard camera captured the shooting on videotape, it did not reveal the identity of the assailant as officer Houts' patrol car was positioned behind the Impala and because his attacker did not get out of the vehicle."

Amazingly, Keith survived the shooting. But he never regained consciousness and, two days later, he died from his extensive injuries.

Woodward fled to Alabama. The car he'd been driving – which he'd borrowed from girlfriend Tiffany Surles – was later found burned out and abandoned.

Tiffany testified that Woodward confessed the crime to her, claiming he'd simply said, 'I messed up'.

When Woodward was arrested a day later, following a shopping trip to Birmingham, he immediately blurted out, 'What's going on? I didn't shoot anybody' – even though he had been unprompted about any crime.

Prosecution files said: "The only inference the jury could have drawn was that the reason Mr Woodward knew he was being arrested for shooting someone was that he had, in fact, shot someone."

Woodward denied his guilt – but the weight of evidence soon started stacking up against him.

In explosive courtroom testimony, the jury was told how Woodward had a history of killing – he had pleaded guilty to manslaughter some 18 years previously following the death of Janice Albert.

She had been gunned down by Woodward in 1990, when he was just a teenager.

Janice's daughter, Jennifer – who was just six years old at the time – told the court: "I always just wanted to be in the same room as him.

Devastating

"When I learned of Keith Houts' murder, I thought, 'He's gotten out and he's done it again'.

"I think he should have stayed in jail."

But there was one more sting in the tail for Woodward.

Having been found guilty by a jury, he was initially sentenced to serve life in prison.

Judge Truman Hobbs, however, disagreed.

On September 25, 2008, he implemented what in American justice is called an 'override' and ordered Woodward be put to death instead.

There were scenes of jubilation when the sentence was dished out. Keith's sister, Lori Holsomback, said: "It's just someone that you think you're going to grow old with. He's my older brother – he's 17 months older.

"Then, in just one phone call, he was taken from me.

"When Woodward was given a life sentence, that was devastating.

"It said to me that his life was more valuable than my brother's.

"But the override was like someone had stood up for my family. Someone had stood up for my brother and for the Montgomery Police Department and the state of Alabama and said, 'This isn't right, this isn't fair. He's killed more than one person. He's going to Death Row'."

District attorney Ellen Brooks said: "I'm emotional simply because justice was done today and it's been two years coming.'

Keith's father took the dignified step of extending an olive branch to the killer's family, speaking of his pain for Woodward's own father, Dion.

Eddie Houts said: "I'm sorry for Mario's father. We both lost our sons.

"I know he lost his a long time ago when he chose the street.

"Because of that decision, I lost my son."

WEEKEND Sport WHEN A WAR VETERAN SNAPS

COCK-EATING CANNIBAL IS OUT OF JAIL

TOWN TRIPS: Meiwes killed and ate Bernd Brandes (inset)

A 'friendly and polite' cannibal who put out an advert for 'a man to slaughter' in a gay magazine before murdering and eating him has been going for 'walks around town'.

Former computer technician Armin Meiwes, 58, was given 'sunglasses and a cap' to hide his identity and then driven for walks.

"Two officers accompany him. We always drive to another state for security reasons. There he can walk around town," an investigator said.

By GRACE HOOPER
news@sundaysport.co.uk

In March 2001, Meiwes stabbed Bernd Brandes, 43, in the heart after amputating his penis and frying it in a pan with 'salt, pepper garlic and nutmeg'.

Chopped

The pair met up at Meiwes's Rotenburg farmhouse in Germany's western state of Hesse.

In a pre-prepared killing room, both men tried to eat part of Mr Brandes, who had taken 20 sleeping pills to numb the pain.

When Mr Brandes was dead, he was chopped to pieces on a butcher's block and kept in a freezer as Meiwes gradually ate meal-sized portions over a period of months.

Meiwes was convicted in 2006 for murder and disturbance of the peace and jailed for life, overturning a 2004 manslaughter conviction and a lesser sentence of eight-and-a-half years.

There had been a legal argument over whether killing a willing victim counted as murder.

Now Meiwes has been described as a 'friendly, outgoing, polite' inmate who reads, helps other prisoners with the typewriter, goes to church services and works in the laundry.

The Kassel regional court is considering an application for parole.

#HOT'N'HORNY

cara BRETT

CURVY Cara Brett STRAW is a hell of a girl!

And when she's not rolling around in the hay, Cara says she's got a whole wardrobe crammed full of SEXY LINGERIE and role playing outfits.

The busty 32D stunna, from Hampstead, north London, has loads of undies – but she still reckons spontaneous shagging can sometimes be the best.

Cara, 27, said: "Nothing makes me feel sexier than when I'm wearing gorgeous lingerie and high heels with lacy stockings and suspenders.

"I've got loads of gorgeous, feminine gear, naughty nurse's uniforms and kinky latex outfits.

"I'm always thinking of new ones I can buy for role play.

"I mean, don't get me wrong, it takes some time and effort to get dressed up, so I don't do it every time.

"Sometimes the best sex is spontaneous."

HE'S BACK! JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

FRANCE, never knowingly nice to its own citizens, has come up with a cheeky little ruse to further push government away from the people.

During lockdown, they've been dishing out fines for people naughty enough to step out for some fresh air.

That's a staggering 1.3 million fines at 135 Euros a pop – earning President Macron's government a tidy 175,500,000 euros!

Just wait for the merde to hit the fan. Again.

IT'S become as irritating as people on December 31 saying: "See you next year."

Yes – it's "fancy a pint?"

Fancy one?...

I could happily drench one right over my own face for the price of a small child.

Confused? #Me Too!

SLAGGING off Boris Johnson is all the rage right now.

Everyone with access to social media is not only a wise political commentator, but an epidemiology expert, too.

No matter that their clinical experience stretches no further than having once applied a Mr Men plaster to a cut finger, they consider themselves now up there with Hippocrates.

Frankly, it's embarrassing.

And I've been reluctant to join the throng because, when nothing like COVID-19 has ever happened on such on a scale in any of our lifetimes, I figured cut the guy a bit of slack.

The nearest thing to this I can recall was when Aids emerged in the 80s and our TVs, a bit like now, seemed to be the voice of doom sat in the corner of the living room, regularly declaring the end of the world is nigh.

When the Prime Minister popped up on Sunday evening for his 10-minute address, though, my tether's end had been reached.

First, why was this a pre-recorded message? If he'd done it hours or days beforehand, why not tell us at the time instead of waiting until we're all plastered after a solid Sunday drinking session?

Then there was the content of the speech itself. It was as clear as mud.

Stay in. But if you have to go out – to work, say – then go out.

But don't go "out out", whatever on earth that means.

Say hello to a family member, but only one of them.

Go to the park or the beach, but don't stand in those places together.

Wear a mask and gloves – although you don't have to if you don't want to.

It's all about as straightforward as trying to navigate the Spaghetti Junction with your car in reverse. While wearing a blindfold. Even though your eyes have been gouged out.

Then they couldn't decide when the gradual back to work was to start. Monday, originally. Then Wednesday.

But only if you're quite comfortable with the idea – otherwise, you know, just stay at home. Or don't.

Confused? #MeToo.

RECYCLING day again. Once more ours imitates the sound of a skip full of spanners being emptied into a fish tank.

Cop forced girl into sex to drop speeding charge

A POLICE officer who forced a woman into having sex with him to get out of a speeding ticket has been axed.

Darwin Fontenot, 21 (above), faces a rape charge after a female he stopped for speeding in March said he forced her to bonk him in exchange for leniency.

Police Chief Deon Boudreax said: "The public holds law enforcement to a high standard, and so do I.

"Whether the sexual interaction was consensual or not doesn't justify it.

"I will not tolerate such unprofessional behaviour from our police officers."

Fontenot has been released on bail and is on administrative leave from his job with police in Port Barre, Louisiana.

The victim said Fontenot offered her leniency in exchange for sex and he "engaged in sexual activity."

Fontenot admitted he engaged in sexual activity with the woman but said the two met up after he was off duty.

Boy, 5, shoots brother dead with 'toy' gun

A FIVE-year-old boy fatally shot his brother, 12, with a gun he found while out playing in the woods.

Police found the lad suffering from a gunshot wound to the chest and although CPR was given to him at the scene, he died later in hospital.

The victim and his siblings, ages five and seven, were in woods near their home in Griffin, Georgia, when one of the youngsters found the gun.

Special investigators spoke to the child and determined he thought it was a toy when he fired it, blasting his brother.

Officers had searched an area near where the gun was found after suspects fled a traffic stop nearby, police said.

A bag of suspected drugs was discovered, but no gun was found at the time.

Cops are investigating.

DOWN WITH

SEX 'MAD': Protest scene in Father Ted and (below) Bishop Cox

By GRACE HOOPER

neil@sundaysport.co.uk

RAUNCHY Beeb drama Normal People has been hit by a Father Ted-style protest over bedroom scenes.

Devout Irish Catholic bishop Michael Cox has launched an extraordinary attack on the series' sex scenes.

It comes as main actor Paul Mescal prepares to have his WILLY on display in the latest episode of the hit show.

Co-star Daisy Edgar-Jones has already been seen full-frontal – to the anger of some but delight of many.

In Channel 4's hit comedy Father Ted, Ted and his curate sidekick Dougal famously protested outside a Craggy Island cinema showing a raunchy flick.

Outraged

They carried banners saying "Careful now!" and "Down with this sort of thing!" – after secretly watching the film themselves.

In real life, Normal People has been praised and criticised in equal measure – with the "realistic" bedroom action earning many plaudits.

But the show has outraged Bishop Cox in Ireland, where it is being shown by Irish broadcaster RTE.

He stormed: "Morally it is wrong. Showing a grown man fully naked on TV? It would offend any right-minded human being.

"It is outrageous and it should be stopped."

A show insider said: "If the earlier sex scenes caused ripples of complaints, this will bring a tsunami on RTE."

Despite a string of complaints, RTE said it would broadcast the entire series unedited.

But Bishop Cox added: "Do I think outrages like these are responsible for the coronavirus? I think people should read the Bible and find out."

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Bexie,

ME and my mate have just come back from a week in Magaluf and we're both shagged out.

We bonked a different bird every night and could have bedded even more.

One evening we'd had a boozy session with lots of fit babes in a bar and were just about to leave when we were approached by two Swedish girls who dragged us off to their apartment for a sizzling four-in-a-bed session.

Another time me and my mate ended up in bed with a fat bird from Yorkshire who insisted on us taking her in both openings at the same time.

I love Magaluf – or "Mega Muff" – and plan going back later in the year.

Have you ever been there?

JS, Essex

Bexie says…

NO, but I'll think about it.

Dear Bexie,

I'M in a right state. I think I may be turning gay and I don't know what to do about it.

I'm just into my 30s and have had a couple of failed marriages. When I was out with a new pal the other night she took me to a lezza bar.

I'd never been to one before and it really opened my eyes. All these young women – some of them absolutely stunning – had me looking at them in a way I never thought possible.

I found myself entranced with one, who wore a lowcut T-shirt. She motioned towards the toilets and my heart raced as I took the plunge and decided to follow her.

Once inside, her tongue was down my throat as fast as her hand was down my pants, fingering my wet fanny.

Then we kissed passionately as I fiddled with her. Then she left without another word. Am I gay?

AS, Brighton

Bexie says…

MAYBE you're bisexual. Why not try it again just to make sure?

Well-hung fella is a big problem for me

Dear Bexie,

I AM a 27-year-old woman and I've met the man of my dreams.

Most of my mates are really envious as he's so good-looking and is packed in the trouser department.

He is so big he can hardly buy jeans to house his massive knob – but here is where the problem lies.

I love sucking it as it fills my mouth and I have to use both hands to pull him up and down as I suck.

But it hurts so much when he shags me that I can only go for so long before he has to take it out.

He says it doesn't bother him, but I know he'd like to spend more time inside me and the longest we've ever shagged is only five minutes or so.

I've bought big dildos to try to widen myself, but it hasn't worked.

I'm scared I'll lose him.

What can I do?

JP, Kent

Bexie says…

TRY loads of lube. If that fails, send me his phone number and I'll help out!

Nursery teacher's bonking lesson on pub pool table

Dear Bexie,

I'M a single dad of 28 and recently I moved house so I would be nearer my son's nursery school.

When I went to pick him up for the first time, I spotted one of his teachers in the playground.

This woman was like something out of Love Island.

I knew her from somewhere but couldn't place her beautiful face… until I got home.

She works in a pub I sometimes go to. This was my incentive to go out on a Friday night.

When I arrived, there was only her serving behind the bar and a couple of blokes in the corner playing pool.

Juices

I ordered a pint and propped up the bar for the night. Me and this teacher started chatting and got on like a house on fire.

Eventually the blokes left, so she told me to stay where I was and closed up early.

As soon as the door was locked, she walked slowly and sexily up to me and we began to kiss.

She then led me to the pool table and sat on it as we continued to kiss and fondle each other.

I unzipped my 10-incher and pulled her mouth toward it and she greedily sucked me off.

Just as my balls tightened, she pulled away and hitched up her skirt to reveal her wet pussy. I dived in and lapped away until her juices were running down my face.

She then guided my cock into her fanny and we shagged furiously until I exploded inside her.

She quickly worked me back to hardness and then ordered me to shag her doggy-style on the table.

I was like a man possessed as I pounded away for what seemed an age until we both climaxed.

There's one problem. Her mum runs the nursery and she says if I don't give them BOTH a good fking she'll get my son thrown out.

While she's tasty, her mum is a bit old and wrinkly. What do I do?

HJ, London

Bexie says…

CLOSE your eyes and think of the daughter.

Dear Bexie,

I HAVE been going out with my girlfriend for over two years, and for the last three months I have been shagging her sister as well.

She works at a pub and it started when we had a lock-in. I went to the bog and my bird's sister followed me in and gave me one of the best blowjobs I've ever had.

We were all at a party a couple of weeks ago and I was giving her one from behind when my bird walked in.

She just smiled, told her sister to move, and then pushed me onto the bed and rode my knob until it ached.

And her sis watched! Is this normal?

JD, Cumbria?

Bexie says…

NO, but it sounds great.

Diversion gave me the ride of my life

Dear Bexie,

WHILE driving home from work last week with a colleague we were forced into a diversion through the countryside.

After a few miles weaving along some winding country lanes we stopped in a queue of traffic behind a broken down lorry.

In the car behind us were two blondes, who we got to meet because the driver accidentally bumped the back of my motor, leaving a big dent.

She was very apologetic and very keen to "make up for it" and I wasn't going to argue as she had a cracking body with a big pair of tits.

Totally ignoring all the other cars behind us, she led me to the back seat of her car and wasted no time getting her mouth round my stiff cock.

She was an expert at giving blowjobs, licking up and down my shaft and gently teasing my bellend until I could stand it no longer and shot my load deep down her throat.

It seemed my mate was getting lucky too, as I could make out his bare arse going up and down on the other blonde in the back of my car.

Blasting horns made it clear the traffic was on the move again and we went back to our respective motors and got moving again, giving the girls a wave as they shot past us and surged away.

I was well content, and so was my pal, but as we drove home I realised we hadn't exchanged details and probably won't see those babes again. Damn!

NB, Worcester

Bexie says…

OH dear, a dented ego as well as a dented bumper!

Dear Bexie,

MY wife is making me sick. I recently paid for a tit job for her to boost her confidence – and now she just can't stop getting 'em out!

Before her operation she was just like a normal woman – shy, retiring, doing as she was told – but now it's gone totally the other way.

She even told me to "get a life" the other day when I moaned about her doing a strip for the lads in our local darts team so she could show off her bigger boobs.

She now whips them out at every opportunity – in the garden, in the park, on the bus – and she's always asking my pals to have a feel of them and tell her what they think.

I'm at my wit's end now because she recently asked me if I wanted a threesome.

When I said I did, she told me to invite one of my mates around one night soon!

I thought she meant with one of her pals!

The thought of her acting like this is driving me bonkers.

What should I do?

PJ, Birmingham

Bexie says…

TELL her straight what you expect from her – but get ready for a battle of wits. I think she's just discovered her "other" side.

'They pump thick dollops of spunk on me until my body is drenched'

...WITH ZOE FOX, 28, 30DD-25-35 FROM CARDIFF

'AN ex-boyfriend told me he had a fantasy about me being tied up to a cross and being bukakked by about 50 guys.

Then afterwards, our female play partner cleans me up with her tongue.

We never did it – some things are just for fantasy – but it's definitely become something I've flicked my bean over many times!

The idea of a group of men around me in a circle, all furiously jerking off while their eyes are on me, is so hot.

One of them would start to jizz on me – and watching that sets off the others.

They rub their dicks harder, then pump thick dollops of spunk on me.

Their cum is deposited in my open mouth and splashes on my tits and belly – in fact by the end, I'm drenched and my whole body glistens.

In my fantasy all the men treat me like I'm some sort of disposable jizzrag as opposed to worshiping me like a queen.

It's an extreme fantasy – I wouldn't necessarily do it in real life (though I'm tempted!) – but that's what makes it a thrilling escape from reality.'

#HOT'N'HORNY

SHOE look like a bit of a naughty girl!

Juicy Jenny McClain covers up her most intimate parts with a sandal here – but you were staring at her big boobs, weren't you?

And there's more…

The 28-year-old beauty said she gets a taboo thrill from going to lap dancing clubs with her fella.

While many girls would be green with envy, Jenny – who is originally from the Czech Republic – said she gets really turned on watching her boyfriend ogle other girls' bodies.

She said: "I suppose I'm just not the jealous type. Some girls can be funny about strip clubs, but I don't mind.

"I only have one rule – he has to take me with him. I actually think they're a good laugh.

"I'm 100% straight, but I can definitely appreciate the female form.

"And I'll admit, I do get turned on looking at a sexy, curvy woman taking off her clothes in a room full of strangers.

"It must take so much confidence, and personally I find that really sexy."

IT'S finally time to say goodbye to the creepy Crawleys of Downton Abbey and hello to the horny hotties of buxom Bottomley Manor!

For all you red-blooded fellas who love your porn but are bored to tears by dull Downton Abbey this is your lucky day.

Released last week, the UK's most highly anticipated adult movie is available exclusively through the Sport's adult partner Private Shops and, for a limited time they're offering readers another £5 OFF the already low, low price.

Down On Abby is a big budget, full length adult masterpiece starring porn legend Ben Dover and a cast of the hottest adult stars around. It will transport you to Bottomley Manor, home to the Lord Grabhem (played by Ben Dover), his wife (and 2014 AVN nominee) Jasmine Jae, and their two young promiscuous step-daughters, Abby and Fanny.

The Grabhems have invited the Stiffies to dinner and their staff, led by butler Smallc and footman Master Bates, hurriedly prepare to receive their honoured guests.

But during preparations some members of staff have their own ideas of how to make the night go with a bang! As dinner approaches it seems everyone's got more than fancy nosh on their minds. Mind you, there is plenty of noshing as well as lots of other filth that will even cause a crease in Carson's keks.

We see plenty of R18 DVDs at the Sport but this one is really something special and one you MUST not miss!

This future classic stars Ava Dalush as Missy, Cathy Heaven as Lucy, Emma Leigh as Betty, Jasmine Jae as Lady Wanda Grabhem, Jasmine James as Fanny Grabhem, Jess West as Lady Stiffie, Lexi Lowe as Abby Grabhem, Ben Dover as Lord Will Grabhem, Big Bad Dave as Smithers and Clarke Kent as Master Bates.

DELIGHTFUL Brooke Lea has "Britain's best boobs", according to Merseyside mechanic John Stevens, 29.

And John reckons the 28-year-old Taunton model's colossal rack never fails to brighten his day.

He said: "If you are ever stressed out about anything, all you need to do is have a good look at Brooke's massive 32FFs!

"It really helps me during busy days at the garage."

WELCOME to the interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunnas appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for.

VANESSA WALKER

BETTING shop worker Phil Crosby is the self-confessed "biggest fan" of Blackpool babe Vanessa Walker, 29.

The 25-year-old, from Reading, Berks, told us: "Could you publish a photo of Vanessa, please? She hasn't been in the Sport for ages.

"I think she's got the perfect sized boobs – 32E. Yes please!"

Well, Phil, you asked – and we've responded. Here's a snap of Vanessa in all her glory!

KEIRA MOON

BUSTY Keira Moon, 32, is the choice of Manchester PR manager Elliot Davies.

The 37-year-old told us Keira, 32E, from Tower Hamlets, east London, is "the best glamour model in the business".

He said: "I always thought she had an incredible body.

"She was probably my favourite Sport girl from the last few years.

"Please print one of her topless pictures for me – I'd really appreciate it."

ZOOMING OFF:Vettel is leaving Ferrari

VETTEL DRIVES OUT OF FERRARI

FORMULA ONE

LEWIS Hamilton is being linked with a move to Ferrari after Sebastian Vettel announced his departure from the Italian giants.

The Brit is widely expected to end his time at Mercedes at the end of the current campaign. And the speculation has been put into fifth gear by the shake-up at the Prancing Horse.

Vettel is on his way at the end of the year, saying there is no "common desire to stay together". The German has won four titles but none since joining the sport's most famous team.

Contract talks were ongoing but have broken down and the driver said: "My relationship with Scuderia Ferrari will finish at the end of 2020.

ON THE MOVE: Hamilton

"In order to get the best possible results in this sport, it's vital for all parties to work in perfect harmony.

"The team and I have realised that there is no longer a common desire to stay together beyond the end of this season.

Priorities

"Financial matters have played no part in this joint decision. That's not the way I think when it comes to making certain choices and it never will be.

"What's been happening in these past few months has led many of us to reflect on what are real priorities in life.

"One needs to use one's imagination and to adopt a new approach to a situation that has changed."

Vettel is not expected to retire and there is talk of him taking Hamilton's place should the Brit leave Mercedes.

The German added: "I myself will take the time I need to reflect on what really matters when it comes to my future.

"My immediate goal is to finish my long stint with Ferrari, in the hope of sharing some more beautiful moments together."

Ferrari team principal Mattia Binotto said: "This is a decision taken jointly by ourselves and Sebastian, which both parties feel is the best.

"It was not an easy decision to reach, given Sebastian's worth as a driver and as a person.

"There was no specific reason that led to this decision, apart from the common and amicable belief that the time had come to go our separate ways to reach our respective objectives."

ENGLAND DEFENDER GETS TO

DANNY: I DON'T GIVE A FK

Rose so thorny about football starting again

By JOHN ANTHONY

DANNY Rose says he "couldn't give a fk" about British morale as football looks to restart.

The Newcastle defender is the highest-profile star to make his feelings clear about the game coming back at the start of June.

Pundits and some government ministers have said getting football going away would lift the mood of the nation.

But Rose sees it differently and is afraid to make his feelings clear.

He said: "Government is saying 'bring football back' because it is going to boost the nation's morale.

"I don't give a fk about the nation's morale, people's lives are at risk. Football shouldn't even be spoke about coming back until the numbers have dropped massively. It's bollocks. We'll see."

The left-back has also been raging about racism in the game, saying punishments handed out for abuse are a load of "bollocks".

He was the target of racist chants when England played Montenegro.

UEFA found the home team guilty but only fined then £17,500. Rose believes that is pathetic and isn't a punishment at all.

He added: "Is walking off teaching them a lesson? If you walk off it's nothing.

"They are getting fined £10,000. It's bollocks. The FA when it happened they were brilliant, they couldn't have done any more.

"But the higher powers of course they can do more. It is just one of those things.

"It was a lot worse when we were kids and the generation before had it worse, so hopefully it is better for the generation coming through."

Resume

Another England star — Raheem Sterling — has been voicing worries about footy coming back too soon.

The Manchester City winger said: "The moment we do go back it just needs to be a moment where it's not just for footballing reasons, it's safe for not just us footballers but the whole medical staff, referees.

"I feel like once that side, of the people's safety and the player's safety, is secured and their well-being is looked after, then that's the right time to go back in.

"Until then, I'm not scared, but reserved and thinking what the worst outcome could be.

"I've had friends whose grandma has passed away, I've had family members as well that have passed away.

"You've got to be wise and take care of yourself and those around you."

The chances of Rose and Sterling having to play again this season are hanging in the balance.

The government has given the go-ahead for professional sport to resume behind closed doors on June 1.

There's no chance the Premier League would be ready

THE POINT OVER PROJECT RESTART

DOUBTFUL: Danny Rose and Raheem Sterling have voiced their concerns about football kicking off any time soon to kick off then. But it's possible matches could be back a couple of weeks after that — if the current sticking points can be ironed out.

It looks as though Leagues One and Two will call time on their campaign.

Amazed

Several club bosses have gone on the record to say they simply cannot afford to play games behind closed doors even if it was safe.

Rotherham chairman Tony Stewart says he would be "amazed" if the lower divisions complete their seasons.

The Millers sit second in League One and he thinks they have played their last competitive game for some time.

He said: "We need a decision, we need to get some direction from the Football League.

"They are our masters. We have been waiting patiently and it will be nice to know where we are at this time.

"I have got doubts, it will be very difficult to restart. I don't see League One and League Two starting.

"I would be amazed. They are talking about mid-June, we are talking about just weeks that we have got to prepare for it.

"I don't think there is the time to get it organised and together. But if instruction comes we have to do what we have to do.

"The EFL are meeting on Wednesday.

"What we need is to get instructions so we know which way we are going."

Too soon in London says Mayor

MAYOR of London Sadiq Khan says it is "too early" to even think about Premier League games being played in the capital.

Grounds like Wembley have been mooted as neutral venues that could be used under "Project Restart" plans.

Premier League clubs are looking at playing again next month now that the government has given the green light for professional sport behind closed doors from June 1.

But Khan is not in favour of playing games in London any time soon — even in the middle of next month.

His spokesman said: "Sadiq is extremely keen for the Premier League and professional sport in general to resume. However, with the country still in the grips of this crisis, and hundreds of people dying every day, he believes that it is too early to be discussing the resumption of the Premier League and top-flight sport in the capital.

"As a Liverpool fan, Sadiq of course wants the Premier League to return, but it can only happen when it is safe to do so, and it cannot place any extra burden on the NHS and emergency services.

"Sadiq is also concerned about the welfare of players competing in all sports, not just football. There are huge questions to be asked how players could train safely, travel to matches and how they could play competitive matches without the risk of spreading infection."

HOLD ON: Gary Neville

Wait until July for big comeback says Neville

THE PREMIER League should forget starting in June and target July instead.

That's the verdict of Man United legend Gary Neville who thinks it would be a bad move to get back on the pitch too soon.

There is talk of players refusing to return to full training until the Covid pandemic calms down.

But clubs have already got their stars working alone and hope to step up their preparations in the coming days.

Neville is not keen on that idea. He said: "I don't think anybody is clear, in.

"I think the Premier League were hanging their hat on further guidance that they didn't get.

"Maybe at this moment in time they need to be thinking on a July start rather than a June start. We're getting closer and closer to a deadline.

"There is economic pressure building, there's a health problem pending, but there's a set of communications that need to take place with players.

Missing

"But if they can get some sort of liability from the Government, I think the Premier League will try and restart."

Jamie Carragher is concerned that many players will REFUSE to start playing again.

If stars are missing it could make a mockery of the remaining games much more than using neutral stadiums.

Carra thinks there will be as many as four first teamers missing from each side.

The Liverpool legend said: "If the players, en masse, don't want to play, it's going to be very difficult.

"The majority of players I've spoken to, want to go back.

"There will always be three or four in every group who are suspicious, and you have to respect that.

"Players' safety is more important than everything — the money, who goes up and who goes down.

"I don't think you're ever going to get everyone on board, the same as the wages, but it's never going to be risk-free until a vaccine comes out.

"So it's when the risk is low enough.

"They're saying footballers will be some of the safest people in the country if they go back to work."

BARCA'S PEP BID

President wants to bring Guardiola back

GETS THE VOTE: Pep Guardiola

BARCELONA are ready to make a sensational bid for Pep Guardiola.

By JOHN ANTHONY

The Manchester City boss had a successful spell at the Nou Camp between 2003 and 2010.

He took the club to the summit of European football and remains a popular figure with the fans. That's not a shock given he knocked Real Madrid of their perch and landed two Champions League titles.

And his president during much of that time — Joan Laporta — wants to bring Guardiola back to Barcelona.

The chief of the Catalans is elected by the fans.

And Laporta is standing again with the promise of getting Pep back in the hotseat if he wins the vote.

He said: "I'm working towards standing.

"I have been president and I am very excited about the possibility of being president again. The situation at Barca in 2021 will be dramatic and we will have to revert it.

"I am working with people I trust, businessmen and other people of prestige."

And Laporta has a clear election promise.

He added: "What I would like most would be the return of Guardiola and that is a decision he has to make.

"He's a point of reference for barcelonismo and many of us who are fans would like him to coach Barca again."
